OLD FRIENDS

There are no friends like old friends

And none so good and true

We greet them when we meet them

As roses greet the dew.

No other friends are dearer

though born of kindred mould

And while we prize the new one's

We treasure more the old

There are no friends like old friends

To calm our frequent fears

When shadows fall and deepen

Through life's declining years

And when our faltering footsteps

Approach the great divide

We'll long to meet the old friends

Who wait on the other side.

Author's Note

These records have been carefully kept over many year's. The results, spelling of names are as recorded on the official teamsheets of the day and are recognised by the Northern New South Wales Soccer Federation, and the Australian Soccer Federation, as being official and correct.

Mr Sid Grant M.B.E. who was the Statistician of the day passed these records onto me in 1968 for safe keeping. Mr Grant was a World authority on football, as well as being President of the New South Wales Association for many years. Mr Grant was also a football reporter for the Newcastle Sun for many year's, writing under the name of "Celtic".

Mr Jack Harrison of Wallsend, Mr Bill Orr the former Secretary of Leichhardt Annandale and Mr Ross Gibson of Hamilton loaned me a great deal of material that had been lying idle for many years, and for this I thank them very much.

Mr Jack Mathews, the former sporting Editor of the Newcastle Morning Herald and the Miners Advocate who wrote under the name of the "ONLOOKER" also assisted greatly. It is doubtful that these records would have existed today without these gentlemen.

To all those people who loaned me Photo's. Mr Byers of Balmain, Mrs Leadbetter of Lilyfield, Bert Bampton of Bulli The King School Parramatta, John Low Librarian at the Blue Mountains City Library, Mrs Pascoe of Birchgrove, Mr Phil Mosely of Whitley College The Baptist College of Victoria.

THE GAME OF FOOTBALL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Some two or three years ago you were kind enough to publish some letters of mine on the above subject, and particularly with regard to the introduction of the Association rules as played in England and Scotland, and I ventured to express my belief that, were the subject well followed up, it would be productive of some good towards establishing a distinct code of rules other than those at present in vogue in New South Wales, i.e.—the Rugby Union. The subject was not well followed up—in fact, it was not followed up at all; and I got me away abashed, resolving to hold my tongue in future. However, as the subject has once more cropped up, I must ask your favour to allow me, through your paper, to add a word or two in favour of the English Association game. In doing this, I have no intention of interfering with the Rugby Union game, as, being an old Rugby Union player myself, I can quite appreciate the fact that the Rugby Union rules can and do hold their own here, as elsewhere where they are played; but I claim the attention and support of Rugby Union players in introducing the English Association game in preference to the Victorian Association one, inasmuch as the former stands purely on its own ground, and with the exception of the golden rules of off and on side, bears no resemblance to the Rugby Union game, while the latter is a hybrid affair, neither fish, flesh, fowl, nor good red herring, either to the Rugby Union or English Association player, and which, if successfully introduced, would utterly destroy the national characteristic of the game of football in Australia.

"Leather Stocking," in his review of the game of football in your Saturday's issue, has gone into the subject freely and fully; and his suggestion, that the English Association rules should be tried, ought to meet with the support of all who are interested in football matters; and no doubt the meeting advertised to take place at the Exchange on Tuesday next will be well attended.

Of the popularity of the Association rules in England and Scotland there can be very little doubt; as the majority of the leading football clubs enrol players of either the Rugby Union or Association games under their colours; and at the International Match played at Glasgow in March, 1876 (in which, though a colonial, I had the honour of playing for England, and getting jolly well thrashed in the bargain), despite the rain falling in torrents at intervals and the ground being half under water, there could not have been less than 40,000 spectators on and around the ground. The rules (which I understand) are simple and easily acquired, and I feel certain, once fairly introduced, will make a very favourable impression on the football players and supporters in New South Wales. Apologising for the length of this, I beg to enclose my card, and remain yours, &c., &c., NOVICEUCIAN.

HISTORY OF FOOTBALL IN NEW SOUTH WALES

1880- INTRODUCTION

Records show that an English Schoolmaster Mr. J.W. Fletcher arrived in Sydney town in the latter months of 1875.

On Tuesday 3rd August 1880 as a result of letters to the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald in July of this year Mr Fletcher in conjunction with messrs A.P. Savage, M. Barlow, J.A. Todd, W.J. Baker, C.E. Hawlett, C.P. Stephens and Mr. A. Gibb and others held a public meeting at Aarons Exchange Hotel with the view of starting Football according to the English Association Rules.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—If you will allow me, I wish to suggest through your columns that some move might be taken to form a club or association to play football according to the rules of the English Association. This game is played in Scotland, also, where it is immensely popular and I am sure, once introduced, the dribbling game would be equally so here. I have played at home, and would gladly subscribe to the membership of any club willing to play our grand game. I think it possible also, that there are many old hands, mayhap a "Queen's Park" man, or a "wanderer," who would take a pleasure in promoting such a club in Sydney; and, although I cannot again become a playing man, I would form one in any team for a show-match, and otherwise assist to put the young Australians right (if a club were formed) until they could walk alone. I am, &c,
Sydney, July 12. HALF BACK.

2ND LETTER.

FOOTBALL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I read with much interest Mr. J. W. Fletcher's letter in your issue of the 15th instant, and I cannot but express my extreme regret that the Clubs seceding or desiring to secede from the "Rugby Union," did not establish the new Association under the auspices and rules of the Football Association of Great Britain. In conjunction with several members of the Union, I should have been glad to assist in any way in the formation of an Association on such basis, but I cannot agree to enter the "Rugby game" now played in Victoria. The absence of any "off-side" is, in my opinion, by the encouragement it affords to sneaking, utterly subversive of one of the best principles of good old English sports. If the Victorian is to supersede the Rugby game, then good-bye at once to all hopes of international contests, for neither the English Football Association or Rugby Union would ever consent to play under such rules as those in vogue in the neighbouring colony. I am Sir, yours, &c.
Sydney, 20th July. AN OLD RUGBY MAN.

To the Editor of the Herald. July. 14. 1880.

Sir. Seeing a letter in your paper today from a football player signing himself "Half Back" I quite agree with him that if a move was made to start the Association game here, it would become eventually more popular than the Rugby game. As there are several good association players in the Wallaroo Club (Rugby), and there must be more about town.

I think if a meeting was convened a show match might be arranged. I for one would be happy to endeavour to introduce the game myself.

Yours. "Right Wing".

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir, I am an English Association man, and having played that game for many years at home I am naturally biased in favour of its rules. Still, I am not a bigot, and I am very willing to give way to better rules if they can be found.

Many years ago's close friend of mine was mainly instrumental in introducing the Association rules in Scotland, and became the first president of the since famous Queen's Park Club of Glasgow. The downright prejudice against us was awful, and for a long time we were solus in our preference for the "new rules;" but within eight years the largest crowd that ever assembled to witness any game of the kind in Scotland assembled to see the International match of that year, played at Partick, 34,000 people were said, by the Press, to be present. Mind you, this on a Scottish winter day. I have been present at private club matches and esp the contests, where six to ten thousand persons were onlookers, and I may say, all understood and appreciated the play. I have therefore very good ground for believing that, once introduced and understood, the Association game would rapidly become as popular in New South Wales as ever it did at home. The rules are simple, and, as much depends upon captainship and discipline, the game becomes, when the sides are equal, an exciting and scientific struggle for supremacy, while the vast concourses I have above alluded to speak for the interest onlookers entertain for the play. I appreciate the letters of Messrs. Fletcher and Weiss. To my thinking, they show how necessary is some change in the present play.

I have no wish to run the Rugby Union, or any other rules off the field, but I have a ~~game~~ longing to see my old game at least tried. I am, JAMES A. TODD.

Sir,—I was glad to see in your issue of this morning, a letter advocating the introduction of the English Association game into New South Wales, and I am a little surprised that some old English player has not made the suggestion before. I have reason to think from conversations I have had on the subject that if the game could properly be started it would become very popular, not only with players, but with the public. Unfortunately, a very general misapprehension appears to exist as to the nature of the game, a great many people I have spoken to evidently confusing it with the Victorian Association game, whereas the two games have not a single point in common. As to its chances of popularity, let any one read in Bell's Life the accounts of International or club contests in Glasgow, Sheffield, London, &c., witnessed often by from 10,000 to 12,000 spectators. It is, I think, about twelve years since the game was first started in England, though its principle, that football is a game for feet and for hands, had long existed in the Eton and Harrow games. At the present time the football players of Great Britain, playing under Rugby and Association rules, are about equally divided; and the two games exist side by side without one interfering in the least with the other, save that of late the value of good dribbling has become universally acknowledged in the Rugby game. I feel that we are rather late in writing in advocacy of the English Association game, inasmuch as a large section of the football players of New South Wales, dissatisfied with Rugby rules, appear to have committed themselves to the adoption of Victorian rules. Nevertheless, there must be many old English and Scotch Association players, or old Eton and Harrow men, who would be glad to see their old game played here, and who would make an effort to introduce it; and I am quite sure that the principle of the game, which forbids the use of the hands, except by goalkeeper, and does away with scrummaging, collaring, manning, &c., will commend itself to a very large section of this community. The game is essentially a scientific one, requiring, above everything else, unselfish and organized combination. I do not wish to attack the old Rugby game, which, properly played, is interesting and exciting to players and spectators; but I must enter a protest against the introduction of the Victorian game, which, though certainly interesting and amusing to look at, is, I believe, rougher than the Rugby, and violates the fundamental principle of all games like football—I mean the law of off side. The very thing condemned under the name of "manning" in the Eton game is here encouraged and applauded; and in fact may almost be said to be the chief art of the game. In the brief space of a letter it is impossible to say all that one would in behalf of the introduction of the rules of the English Association; but I hope that, since at the present time a radical change is demanded in the present code, football players and the public generally will give the matter a more thorough investigation than it has yet received before committing themselves to the Victorian game. I should be willing to communicate with gentlemen willing to assist in starting a club under the rules of the English Association, and perhaps it might be possible to convene a meeting to consider the whole question. I am, &c.,

Union Club, July 14, J. W. FLETCHER.

Letter to the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

Mr. J. B. D. A. M. supported the introduction of the English Association game. He had had a few years' experience of the game at home, and he never found that it was anything but a manly and very interesting game. The rules were very simple, so that every one could understand them; and one great point in favour of the game was its want of apparent roughness. He said apparent roughness because he did not see any danger in one game more than another. In his experience he never found the Association game interfere with the Rugby game, but there were many players who could not play the Rugby game, and this Association game would fill a gap which at present existed. The advocates of Rugby football need fear nothing but a very healthy rivalry. Rugby players would probably have the bone and muscle, while the Association players would develop superior smartness and agility, and bring out the prettier points in the game of football. The game would be found a very manly and dexterous one, and one which would require more captainship and discipline than the Rugby game, and, although he had no wish to see the Rugby game superseded, he thought that football under English Association rules preferable.

Mr. R. ARNOLD said that, as far as he was concerned, as an old Rugby Union player, he should be very glad indeed to welcome the Association game into New South Wales, and thought it was a great pity it had not been started long ago. He was unfortunate in not having seen the game, but he had certainly seen plenty of Association play in Rugby Union matches, and was certain there was nothing that would improve the forward play in Rugby matches more than by getting players to practice the Association game. He feared it was too late in the season to do much now; but he certainly hoped that old Association players who might be willing to instruct others would take up this matter next season, and either try to start clubs under the banner of the Association, or else persuade the Rugby Union clubs to also play under Association rules—that was to say that they could send one team into the field under Rugby rules and another under Association rules. He thought this was done in England, and it might be done here. In London there were several clubs playing under both rules, and he thought, considering the comparatively limited number of football players in New South Wales, that perhaps that would be the better plan to act upon. They might give countenance to the English Association game, and when it got stronger the players might drop off from the parent plant and form clubs of their own. (Applause.)

Mr. FLETCHER proposed:—"That a club to play football under English Association rules should be formed, and that a committee be appointed to carry out that object."

Mr. WEISS seconded the motion, which, after further discussion, was agreed to. Messrs. Savage, Hewlett, Baker, Barlow, and Todd were appointed a committee to carry out the object; and Mr. J. W. Fletcher accepted the post of hon. secretary. The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

FOOTBALL UNDER ENGLISH ASSOCIATION RULES.—A meeting convened by Messrs. J. W. Fletcher and J. A. Todd will take place this evening, at Aaron's Exchange Hotel, to consider and promote the introduction of football under English Association rules. All football players and others who may be interested in the improvement of the winter pastime are invited to attend.

HERALD, THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, 1880

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

A meeting of gentlemen for the formation of a Football Club under English Association rules was held on Monday evening, 1st inst., at the Exchange Hotel, about forty persons being present. Mr. W. H. Barkitt occupied the chair, and, after explaining the object for which the meeting was held, proposed that the game of football should be played, provided the game was carried on in a proper manly spirit, was worthy of support. It was suggested some years ago that it would be well to start football under English Association rules, but many of those who preferred that game thought that such a movement would be rather premature, and that football at that time had not prospered sufficiently in the colony to justify the introduction of the Association game; but, probably, the time had now arrived when it could be established successfully. At any rate, it would do good to the Rugby Union game by improving the forward play. A great deal had been said about the Rugby game and a great outcry had been made against scrimmages. He must say, that the old form of scrimmages was very dear to him. It had been said that there was no skill required in these scrimmages, but he thought that when a player put the ball down with ten trusty opponents standing shoulder to shoulder in front of him, and got it through, it required no little skill, and there was no pleasanter feeling than that which attended the successful effort in this part of the Rugby game.

Mr. J. W. Flarconna said that as the game had been in a somewhat uncertain state for some time, and a movement had been started in favour of making a change, at least in one direction, it seemed to him, and to some others, more advisable that it should be in the direction of the good old game, which was played in England side by side with the Rugby, rather than the game which was known here as the Victorian. He had received several letters promising support from gentlemen in Sydney, and also in the country, and he had called the present meeting to consider the proposal, and then, if possible, take steps towards forming a club to play football under English Association rules. The basis of the game was that it was played entirely with the feet, and was football pure and simple. It was started in England some twelve years ago, and spread by degrees over the whole of England, Scotland, and he believed, also, Ireland and Wales; and the fact noted by a writer in that day's Herald, that in 1876 40,000 spectators assembled at Glasgow, on a wet day, to witness an international match, spoke volumes as to its popularity. The great beauty of the game as far as the spectators were concerned was, that it was fast from beginning to end; there was no stoppage, and it did not consist wholly of forward play, but gave an excellent field for the backs to show their powers of kicking. Although he at one time thought the loss of drop kicking a disadvantage, after he had played the Association game for some time, he found there was more pleasure to be derived from firing the ball, either on the half volley, full pitch, or on the hop; and it certainly brought into play, decision, quickness, and readiness of resource. Another thing in favour of the English Association game was that it need not interfere in the smallest degree with the Rugby game, and indeed a Rugby player, by playing the Association game, could materially assist his own. But there were a great many players who, although they played the Rugby game, did so because they had no other. They must have some exercise, and preferred football, and therefore they played the Rugby game; but if any other game were started, he was sure they would find it far more suitable to their tastes than that at present played. There were a great many people who did not go to the football because it was too rough; but a game like the English Association need offend nobody. It was a fast, exciting, and interesting game, and everyone—even the most timid-hearted—could enjoy it.

From "Bell's Life in London" (a great sporting paper of the period) of 1st January, 1881:

"The Association Game in New South Wales.

"We have received the following letter from the Hon. Sec. of the Football Association:—

Coreen College, Woollahra,
Sydney, N.S.W.

"My Dear Sir,

"I do not know whether your attention has been drawn to football in the antipodes, but the following account may prove interesting:—

"Until the present season, the rules of the Rugby Union have been in force here, without any active opposition, and the Southern Rugby Union includes a large number of clubs. During the last two seasons, however, a movement has been gaining ground in favour of the introduction of the Victorian game, which, about six weeks ago, took a definite form in the forming of an Association and clubs, and one or two exhibition games have been played. The mass of football players, whatever they may think of Rugby Union, are, I believe, in Sydney, decidedly averse to this game, considering it was neither 'flesh, fish, etc.'

"Under these circumstances, two or three old English and Scottish Association players, thinking the opportunity for which they had waited had arrived, having mooted the idea in the papers, and gained the favourable consideration of Rugby football players, convened a meeting which was well attended, and in which the matter was well considered.

"A club was immediately formed, with the following Committee: A. P. Savage, M. Barlow, J. A. Todd, W. J. Baker, C. E. Hewlett, and Hon. Sec. J. W. Fletcher.

"Promises of support continued to come in and the club in about three weeks numbers a very creditable number of members, though it was very late, almost at the end of the season, when the club was formed. As the fixtures for the season were already made under Rugby Rules, it was somewhat difficult to arrange matters and get teams together. The first Association match in N.S.W. was, however, played by the club against the King's School, Parramatta, on 14th August, 1880, the club winning by five goals to nil, the game being very promising.

"At a Committee meeting held this week, it was resolved to call our club 'The Wanderers,' or 'N.S.W. Wanderers,' rather, and further, that the club should be enrolled (with your permission) in the British Association, and that an account should be sent Home for publication, that the colours of the club should be white jersey, cap and knickerbockers, with badge Southern Cross and blue stockings.

"Today the second match was played on Moore Park between the newly named 'Wanderers' and Redfern Club, a Rugby club who had not played the rules before. After a very keen game, 'Wanderers' won by two goals to none.

"We have, of course, an uphill game to fight, but you will see we have made a splendid commencement, and feel sanguine of success in spite of the Victorian game. The ice has been broken for next season, when we intend to be early in the field. Will you kindly introduce us to the Football Association? I fancy our modest commencement is only the introduction to a brilliant future for Association football here, and we wish to work in concert with the English Association.

"I have written to Mr. C. Smith, who once played for England, asking him to act as our representative. I had forgotten to say that, besides the 'N.S.W. Wanderers,' this school (Coreen College) plays under Association rules, and has taken to the game wonderfully well. The two clubs play next Saturday.

Yours, etc.,

(Sgd.) J. W. Fletcher,

Wasting no time after the formation, the newly elected Secretary, Mr J W Fletcher, quickly arranged a social match for Friday, 14th August, 1880 with the Headmaster of The Kings School, the Rev. George Fairfowl MacArthur. The result of this match matters little, "but what was to follow in the coming years ahead is vital". The Wanderers won the match 5-0 and for the record, the Wanderers team consisted of:

J A Todd (Capt.) (Glasgow)
 W J Baker (Maidenhead)
 J W Fletcher (Pembroke College, Oxford)
 C E Hewlett (Harrow & Magdalene College, Oxford)
 W Robertson (Glasgow)
 C P Fletcher (Sheffield)
 Mr Westingate (Sheffield)
 W Chapman (Sheffield)
 C P Stephens (Sydney)
 D Raburg (Sydney)
 W Simpson (Sydney)
 J Scott (Sydney)

Rev George Fairfowl MacArthur

Mr A P Savage coached The Kings School whose team list is no longer available.

The next club formed was a team from St. Pauls of Redfern which would later be called Arcadians. The Wanderers met the Arcadians in a social match winning 2-0. For the record, the Arcadians' team was as follows:

W North
 G Thorne
 J Macaulay
 H Payton
 W J Baker
 R M Galloway
 H Brown
 T Coghlan
 H H Jones
 J J Allen
 A Macaulay

Please note that The Wanderers played in all white, buttoned-up shirts with collars, cap with a southern cross badge, blue stockings, boots of all shapes and sizes and white trousers of ankle length. From this humble beginning, football has developed throughout Australia.

FOOTBALL.

The first match in New South Wales played under English Association rules was played on Saturday last, by the newly formed club, against the King's School boys, at Parramatta. The visitors had a very fair team, allowing for the fact that hardly one of them had played football for some years. This advantage was, however, balanced by the fact that the boys had not played these rules before. The game was well contested for an hour and a half, and terminated in favour of the visitors by five goals to none; the number of goals must not, however, be taken as a criterion of the play, which was remarkably even, particularly after half time, the boys on several occasions only failing to score on account of their want of familiarity with the art of passing and middling the ball. On the side of the English Association Club all played up well, but the play of D. Roxburgh as back was remarkably good and invaluable to his side, and Scott's goal-keeping deserves praise. On the King's School side the play of Fenwick was very fine, and he would make a grand Association player; all, however, played well. Mr. Savage, an old international player, played with and coached King's School. The names of the club players were:—T. A. Todd (captain), W. J. Baker, J. W. Fletcher, C. E. Hewlett, C. F. Fletcher, Wastinage, W. Robertson, W. Simson, Chapman, D. Roxburgh, J. Scott (goal). A match has been arranged, under English Association rules, on Moore Park, for next Saturday, against the Redfern Club.

Blue Mountains and the Ashes

— John Low (Local History Librarian, Blue Mountains City Library.)

The cricket season now drawing to a close has marked for cricket fans the 100 year point since the legendary "Ashes" were created amid the excitement and enthusiasm of those "golden years" of cricket at the end of the nineteenth century.

It is perhaps of some interest for those of us who live in the Blue Mountains to know that our region has had some connection with a number of the people who helped shape the early contours of the story a century ago.

When, on that sultry and overcast August day, in 1882, players came onto The Oval at 12 noon, probably none of the 20,000 spectators expected the events they were about to witness.

The strong Australian bowling combination was not anticipated and, led by "The Demon" Spofforth, proceeded to wreak havoc on the English batsmen.

Thomas Garrett

The colonials' victory by seven runs was the first Test win on English soil and the humiliation was widely felt.

The famous mock obituary appearing in print shortly after the match announced the death and cremation of English cricket with the imaginary ashes to be taken to Australia.

Part of that famous bowling combination was a young right-arm medium pace bowler named Thomas William Garrett

Ivo Bligh

Garrett had a distinguished cricket career, touring England three times and playing in 19 Tests for Australia.

As well as bowling, he was a fine over fieldsmen and also had some success with the bat, scoring several first class centuries for NSW.

During the 1890s he was a successful captain of NSW leading his team to victory in the Sheffield Shield on two occasions.

Off the field, he was a solicitor and civil servant and in the early years of this century, following his retirement from competitive cricket, Garrett and his family moved out of Sydney to the Blue Mountains where he became a resident of Springwood.

He lived comfortably in "Braemar" and was an active member of the Springwood Progress Association.

His continued contribution to the administration of cricket and his encouragement of young players like Victor Trumper made him something of a legend in cricketing circles by the time of his death in 1943.

Following the defeat of 1882 a team of English cricketers, captained by the aristocrat Ivo Bligh (Lord Darnley), set out to retrieve the mythical "Ashes" so unceremoniously transported by the upstart colonials.

It was nothing less that a crusade to "resurrect" the honour of English cricket.

It was during this Test series, played in the Australian summer of 1882-1883, that the real Ashes came into existence.

Again, persons at one time associated with the Mountains played a not insignificant part.

Australia won the first Test in Melbourne and it looked as if the currency lads were going to do a proper job of trampling on English pride.

Looking back

But the English rallied and won the next two matches and hence the series. Honour was restored.

Following the British victory and before the tourists returned home, their captain was presented with three things that have become sacred relics in the folklore of Anglo-Australian cricket and are protected with almost religious zeal by the MCC.

These were, some ashes supposedly of one of the Third Test balls, a small pottery urn and an embroidered red velvet bag.

Of the three it is the red velvet bag that is of interest to us for its story is linked with one of the prominent families of early Katoomba.

The bag was the gift of Mrs Ann Fletcher whose husband, John W. Fletcher, was managing a school in the Sydney suburb of Woollahra at the time of the Test series.

A year later, in 1884, the Fletchers were to move to Katoomba where they opened The Katoomba College, a boarding school for boys, in the building that was later to become the Royal Coffee Palace and then the headquarters of the Blue Mountains City Council.

The Fletchers were active in Katoomba life and affairs throughout the 1880s and until the depression of the early 1890s forced the school's closure in 1893.

The name of the building was changed to The Priory and Mrs Fletcher ran it as a boarding house until 1896 when the family returned to Sydney.

Sport was a strong interest in the Fletcher family.

Mr Fletcher played most games well, and in the case of soccer and golf, was prominent in establishing these sports in Australia.

The Fletchers' eldest son, John William, played cricket for Paddington with Victor Trumper and later represented Queensland in 1909-10.

A close friend of the family was the Yorkshire-born watercolourist William Blamire Young.

It is quite possible that he was the designer of the embroidery that decorates the velvet bag as he often created designs for Mrs Fletcher to work upon.

He, too, was a resident of Katoomba in the 1880s being appointed assistant master at The Katoomba College in 1885.

A letter from Ivo Bligh thanking Mrs Fletcher for her gift is housed with the other relics at Lords.

Before the tourists set sail with their recovered treasure they played a further match against a full strength Australian team in Sydney during February 1883.

Tom Garrett, who had taken only three wickets and scored only 16 runs (three ducks) in the previous three Tests, was dropped and into the team came Edwin Evans, an accurate round arm spin bowler from NSW.

In 1877 he had starred for NSW taking 5 for 94 against James Lillywhite's English professionals.

He also had the reputation of being an above average tail-end batsman and he later toured England with the Australians in 1886.

Evans is the final link between these events surrounding the creation of the Ashes and the Mountains.

His father, James Evans, was the first licensee of the Pilgrim Inn at Blaxland (1830.)

After first leasing the property, he purchased it in 1833 and then re-sold it toward the end of the decade.

Moving into farming on the Nepean the large family became well known and respected in the district.

The Australians were successful in this last match but, with the Ashes safely in their keeping, Bligh's team set sail again for England.

Despite Australia's many victories since, the Ashes themselves have never returned. Such is life.

*'Father of Australian Soccer':
John Walter Fletcher
1847-1918—a Biographical Sketch*

Philip Mosely
Whitley College
University of Melbourne

The first recorded soccer match in Australia was played on Parramatta Common in Sydney on the afternoon of Saturday 14 August 1880. Students from The King's School First XV rugby squad made up one team. The other, probably dressed in blue stockings, knickers that billowed beneath the knee and white jerseys that sported a southern cross over the left breast, was to become The Wanderers, the first 'Association Football' club in the land.

It is possible that soccer may have been played before the Parramatta game but suggestions to introduce the code began with two letters to the editor of the Sydney Morning Herald in 1877. The first was penned by 'Novicrucian'; the second, three days later, by 'CC'. 'Novicrucian' was Arthur Henry Savage, a colonial educated at Rugby who had played for England against Scotland in 1876. Four years later he was playing at Parramatta with King's to help the students. 'CC' was John Walter Fletcher, who also played on that memorable day but on the opposing team to Savage and his charges. The two sides came together by virtue of Fletcher's acquaintance with the headmaster of King's, Rev. George F Macarthur. Both men were members of Sydney's Union Club.

Fletcher had been elected Honorary Secretary of the committee set up to form an 'Association Rules' football club on 3 August 1880. On behalf of the committee he had then arranged the first match and on 19 August he presented the committee's proposals to a meeting of faithful for the official establishment of 'The Wanderers' Football Club. Thereafter Fletcher continued as Secretary, enrolling the new club with the (English) Football Association, organising more games and opponents, and in 1881 forming a team at his own Cresson College. In 1882 he then established the [NSW] English Football Association, which with the Natal FA was the first Football Association to form outside the United Kingdom. Prepared to take the lead, Fletcher was the English FA's first Secretary. Although others had been involved in the foundation years of soccer in Australia, Fletcher stands central to the key developments. It can be claimed with justification that he, and only he, was the 'Father of Australian Soccer'.

Fletcher's contribution to soccer has never been publicised within the game itself or anyone external to it. Little has been known of him, even though his involvement in sport was far wider than just football. During his times there were many others more important than him but in its own modest way the career of Fletcher illustrates colonial life in fine detail. This article is a long overdue attempt to rescue a personality from historical oblivion. It also provides a window into the close-knit world of antipodean society in the last quarter of the nineteenth century.

John Walter Fletcher

John Walter Fletcher was born in London on 11 May 1847, the son of John Fletcher, barrister at law, and Harriet Bathurst. His childhood seems to have been spent at Redhill, Surrey and it was at the Redhill School that he began his education. From there he was sent to Cheltenham College, one of the new crop of private establishments for the emerging middle classes. His headmaster at Cheltenham was Alfred Barry, founder of Shore, Sydney Church of England Grammar School for boys. In 1866 Fletcher entered Pembroke College, Oxford and three years later graduated as a Bachelor of Arts with second class honours. His major seems to have been history. In 1879 he paid his yearly dues and obtained his Master's degree. While at Oxford, he took a keen interest in sport and acquired a 'blue' in athletics, with a speciality in long distance running.

Fletcher's movements from 1870-1874 remain obscure but during 1875 he accepted a position as Assistant Master at H E Southey's country school, Oaklands. Initially located at Moss Vale, New South Wales (NSW), the school was moved to Mittagong before Fletcher arrived in the last months of 1875. Employment and a touch of adventure lured Fletcher to Oaklands but the man Southey himself was an attraction. Also an Oxford man, even if he was secretly sent down for persistent gambling, Southey was the nephew of the prominent poet Robert Southey.

If Fletcher believed Oaklands was going to be another Cheltenham, he received a rude shock upon arrival. Southey's school was a small, rough and tumble establishment where bullying among the boys was reminiscent of English schools in the 1820s. Set in the bush with 640 acres of scrub attached, the school had a better than average standard of teaching but Southey's methods, much liked by the Murrumbidgee squatters who sent their sons to Oaklands, were alien to the likes of Fletcher. His stay was accordingly short.

While there, Fletcher did become a pioneer of lawn tennis in Australia. He seems also to have been the 'reformer' who introduced history and geography to the school. His charges included Gilbert Murray, then a ten year old but later an eminent classics scholar. Murray's memoirs help explain why Fletcher's stay at Oaklands was so brief:

When my mother and sister came up once to see me they were horrified at our dishevelled and ruffianly appearance, but took comfort from the thought that we were as healthy as we were untidy.¹

A final reason for Fletcher's quick departure conceivably lay in his staunch Anglicanism and disagreement with Southey, who had a commitment to Catholic religious instruction.

By May 1876 Fletcher was residing in Sydney. He was admitted to the Union Club as an honorary member and full membership followed. Soon after, and it seems through Club contacts, Fletcher met Anne Marian Clarke, whom he married at St Thomas' Church of England, North Sydney. It was Anne who embroidered the velvet bag in which cricket's famed Ashes were taken to England when Ivo Bligh's team returned home in 1883. Fletcher's own connection with cricket at that time was as secretary of the Paddington Cricket Club in Sydney, the same club at which his eldest son, John William, later played alongside Victor Trumper.²

Fletcher settled in Woollahra, one of Sydney's eastern suburbs, and by early 1877 had established his own private boys' school, which he named Coreen College. The school prospered and when Fletcher became involved with soccer as the founding secretary of the first club and football association in Australia, a team comprising the school's pupils played against Sydney's other clubs in 1881 and 1882.³ John Scott Kerr, one of soccer's best players during the 1880s who went on to become a well known bookmaker in New South Wales, was a member of the school's team.

Coreen College continued until 1884 but was then moved to Katoomba on account of Fletcher's preference for mountain air. The new school was named Katoomba College and provided Fletcher with the platform from which to become a local identity.

This began soon after his arrival. Along with two others and John Britty North, the 'Father of Katoomba', Fletcher was appointed a Trustee of the Katoomba, Laura, Banksia and Echo Parks. He helped form the Katoomba Shooting, Excursion and Fishing Club, serving also on its committee. From 1891 to 1894 he was the President of the Katoomba School of Arts. In 1885 and 1886 he had entered his College in the Southern British FA's Association Cup, and in 1889 he was involved in establishing a Katoomba team that twice played the Lithgow Rovers in that year.

Evidently Katoomba College was a quick success. William Blamire Young (Pembroke College, Cambridge) arrived from New Leeds College, Leeds in 1885 to become mathematics master and Verney Parkes, son of Sir Henry Parkes, was commissioned to build extensions. This probably included the school's large and elaborate gymnasium which reflected Fletcher's keen interest in sport. Young was later to distinguish himself in Britain and Australia as a watercolour artist and art critic.

However, when the depression of the 1890s arrived and fewer parents were able to pay boarding school fees, Katoomba College was forced to close in 1893. Young returned to England and the school was turned into a guest house called 'The Priory', which Anne Fletcher managed. John Walter returned to his studies at the same time and was admitted to the Bar in November 1893. Entering Denham Chambers he practised in 1894 and 1895, no doubt returning to Katoomba on the weekends. At the start of 1896 'The Priory' was sold and Anne Fletcher, four daughters and two sons moved to Sydney.

John Walter seems to have left the Bar in 1896 and during the last term of school for that year filled in as a temporary master at Shore. His teaching qualifications and his background as an Anglican and a Cheltenham old boy who personally knew Shore's founder must have helped in gaining this position.

Fletcher's movements during 1897 are unknown but in May 1898 he joined the NSW Department of Justice. In 1899, he was appointed police magistrate at Wilcannia on £350 per annum and served there till he was transferred to Moree in 1902. In 1904 he became a relieving police magistrate in the Justice Department's Emergency Branch. He continued in this position till his retirement in 1914.

Fletcher retired to Neutral Bay in Sydney, not far from where he and Anne were married

Association Football

The game of Soccer emerged as a recognisable code of football when the laws and format of play were regulated by a small group of public school enthusiasts in Southern England, between October 26 and December 8 1863.

It developed from that style of football which can be traced through the middle ages and Renaissance, but it is only from around 1770, in English Public Schools, that the game took on its recognisable modern shape.

At Charterhouse Eton, Harrow, Repton, Westminster, and Windchester, the dribbling game was seen both to suit local fields of play and to fit the new educational ideas being introduced to the public schools system at this time.

Drs Arnold and Butler's education tenets "Godliness and good learning" soon became "Godliness and Manliness" (with some help from Charles Kingsley) and the strenuous dribbling game with its emphasis on sportmanship, discipline and team loyalty, provided a vehicle for instilment of these ideas.

However, owing to the insularity of these institutions, the game developed in various forms, with each school boasting its own set of written or unwritten rules, from the mid 1840s. Indeed, the confusion which resulted over the localised nature of the game's rules prompted the drafting of the "Universal" "Footballing Code" in 1884, this which later became known as "Cambridge Rules" governed the increasingly popular game at "Cambridge University and confirmed the pronounced drift away from the "CATCH AND KILL". "CATCH AND RUN". towards the dribbling game.

"Such matches were played regularly at Cambridge in the 1850s and, inevitably, the rules were taken to the country at large, via its graduates. In 1855 for example, the Sheffield Club (England's second oldest Football Club) was established under the influence of Old Harrovians, who persuaded local village footballers not to handle the ball; allegedly by providing the players with white gloves and florins to clutch during the game.

In 1859, Harrovians formed the Forrest Club in Essex, playing makeshift games against "ad hoc" local teams. Even then, their opponents were mostly composed of old public school boys with a very limited card of matches. Despite these initial difficulties, the game continued to permeate the country, through the good offices and enthusiasm of ex public school and Cambridge men. But the development of the game remained sporadic and was clearly in need of more careful organisation and control."

This was realised in 1862, when several suburban clubs were formed around London and were seen to adopt the rules according to whom and where they were played.

On 26 October, 1863, captains and representatives from 12 clubs met at the Freemasons Tavern in Lincoln Inn Fields in order to codify rules for the regulation of the game of football. At this and other meetings held over the following six weeks, the English Football Association became established. Those at these modest founding meetings could have hardly envisaged the social revolution over which the organisation was to preside, within a few short years. For the sporting bureaucracy which slowly emerged from that first National Football Authority became the framework within which Football established itself as the English National game. While soccer's codification arose largely through the efforts and enthusiasm (early confusion) of public schools exponents the English Football Association gained in power, owing to the games widespread acceptance by the working classes. With the introduction of the five and half day working week for industrial workers in 1840 and 1850s, there became a clear need for recreational activities with which to occupy their spare time. As well, during this period, the enlightened belief became generally held that forms of physical activity were required to maintain good health. Consequently, the dribbling game rapidly gained popularity in the industrial Midlands and north of England. Soccer's forerunner was seen as the ideal recreation for the working classes. The game, as played under the Cambridge rule and later under the F.A. code, was distinguished by involving a minimum of rough play. It could be played virtually anywhere, from cobbled streets and courtyards to uneven commons, and invited less injury to players than other codes.

The equipment required to stage a match was well within the economic scope of the working classes; a ball, four posts or markers and (optionally) Distinguishing Colours. For the F.A. establishment, clubs from the Midlands and the North of England dominated trends in playing styles and the games English administration.

England's most durable export was soccer with global expansion occurring in the 19th and 20th centuries and beyond.

This was largely due to the dominant economic, military and technological sway which the British Empire held in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Within 60 years of the institutionalisation of the F.A. Code, it had become the major Winter recreation in most European Central and South American countries.

But while the game was seen to flourish in countries with large urban populations (eg. Europe, Central and South America) or with high levels of industrialisation (eg. Europe) or in countries with a strong British influence (eg. Palestine and India), soccer inexplicably, languished in Britain's major "European" colonies such as Canada, South Africa, and Australia. In each of these colonial instances, a host of individual reasons maybe advanced to explain why soccer did not attract a strong following. However, three factors which are common to each give rise to a basic pattern.

Firstly, the socio economic conditions under which soccer's popularity grew elsewhere were absent.

None of these colonies had a large urban centres or significant levels of industrialisation until around the turn of the century when in each case, the soccer presence began to be felt.

Secondly the national and nationalistic aspirations in these colonies did not totally concur with those of the British.

In Canada, there was a large French speaking population. In South Africa, there were Dutch (Afrikaners) and in Australia, there were Irish; all whom, for reasons generally known, had cause to resist British influences.

Concomitant with national and nationalistic aspirations as major factors in soccer's slow introduction to these colonies, was the "pioneering spirit." By the late 1880's soccer was seen as a mass recreation whose support came largely from urban/industrial centres hardly a game to attract great interest in colonies requiring the settlement of huge tracts of land.

The third factor which is common to the three colonies is the "adverse" climate and geographic conditions. The blistering sun in Australia and South Africa, the freezing conditions in Canada and wide open spaces which prevail in all three, most probably induced people to participate in more localised recreations.

Equally, the relative isolation of these colonies from world centres (Which at the time were virtually all in Europe), PROVIDED ANOTHER BARRIER to soccer's widespread introduction.

Taking these three factors into consideration, it would seem surprising that soccer became established in any of these British colonies. But, as the conditions for soccer's introduction gradually became present (mainly in the last decade of the 19th century), the game took hold. In Australia as in Canada, South Africa and New Zealand, it was mainly English and Scottish migrants arriving in the 1880s and the 1890s who established the sport of soccer.

In New South Wales and Victoria, games of Soccer was played on an informal basis (usually between neighbouring towns and districts) had been seen as early as 1873, although it was not until the early part of 1880 that games between clubs became organised.

In New South Wales, the colony's first club The Wanderers was formed by a group of Englishmen.

An Association soon had six teams competing, later five clubs emerged to form an Association in Victoria. Queensland first club was The Rangers.

In the North (Newcastle) a group of Scottish miners formed the famous Minmi Rangers in 1884.

The Minmi Rangers were soon followed by Hamilton, Lambton Thistles, Burwood United, Carrington Blackwatch, Wallsend Rovers, Adamstown Rosebud, West Wallsend Bluebells, and Young Wallsend. (Please read Local History re Newcastle).

The Sydney Morning Herald of the 4th June reports if the weather improves for a match to take place this afternoon under English Association Rules, on the Association ground between sides selected by Messrs Fletcher and Raper.

Mr Rapers team will be.

J.A. Flynn, W. Flynn, Jones, Leigh, Mann, McMenemy, Raper, Shaw, Riggota, Tange, Waldron.

The Sydney Morning Herald of the 6th June further reports A match played under the rules of the English Association was to have taken place on Saturday at the Association Cricket ground.

But owing to the weather and the sodden state of the ground consequent upon recent rain, the managing trustees thought it advisable not to allow the game to be played there, as the result might be serious injury to the Cricket wicket.

The contest however took place on Moore Park, the team (11 aside) having been chosen by Messrs Fletcher and Raper.

The match was well patronised by the public, and making due allowances for the event of form exhibited by some of the players the game was of interesting character.

At first the team chosen by Mr Fletcher had the advantage, and succeeded in getting several good shots at goal without scoring.

"But during the last half Mr Rapers men showed more staying power, and the last named player succeeded in winning the match by scoring a goal.. a result partly owing to the "BAD" play of the goalkeeper of the opposing side".

The Sydney Morning Herald further reports that later in June The Wanderers v Redfern.

This match played before a fair number of spectators, but nearly all were interested in the "Footraces", which came on at half time.

The Wanderers though weak in the backs had a strong team with Woolley the captain having a fine game as did Tryer, and MacDonald.

Redfern's centre forward North also played well.

Danahey & Fletcher for Wanderers also had a great match.

At half time the match was held up for 30 minutes for a footrace to take place.

In the second half Redfern were unlucky losing the strong wind which gave Wanderers a big advantage in the first half.

Wanderers were to prove too strong for Redfern winning by 11 goals to 2.

The Sydney Morning Herald of June 1881 Reports.

The English Association v Mr Rapers University XI.

A match under the British and Scottish Rules will be played at Moore Park on the 24th June, the home ground of the Arcadians Club.

A good match is certain, and probably the best display of the game yet seen in Sydney.

The Association team will be Carter, Baker, Kerr, Eaves, Howes, Ferguson, Raymond, Fletcher, McQueen, Gordon, and Bennett.

At the last meeting of the English Association (Parent Body) held at Sheffield, an unanimous vote was in favour of an Antipadean tour at the end of the season 1882-1883 (i.e) a year hence.

Mr W. Wynne took the chair.

Hon Secretary Mr Weller read a letter from R.G. Vallack of Gardiner and Co. stating that after mature consideration he had decided upon handing over the Gardiner Football Trophy to the Southern Rugby Union.

He also mentioned that as the Cup sent out by Mr Gardiner for competition by the Warehouse Club, could not be played for inasmuch as such clubs did not exist, he had written to that gentlemen, asking his permission to hand it over for competition amongst the club's playing under Association Rules, and he had no doubt that before next season commenced he should have the PLEASURE OF INFORMING THE Association that Mr Gardiner had complied with his request.

The Sydney Morning Herald of the 19th May reports that the members of the Southern British Football Association rolled up in full force at Hodges Hotel on Thursday Evening for the purpose of fixing two dates for the Inter colonial matches to be played between Thursday 24th July and the 26th July.

The great struggle for supremacy under these rules will be contested on the Agriculture Society Ground at Moore Park. Where some fine play maybe looked for on both sides, which may ultimately lead to these rules becoming popular here as they are in Great Britain.

Very encourageing reports are being received from Victoria. Several new clubs being already in the field.

This state of affairs has created a similar growth of clubs here in NSW, AND THE LOCAL Association are exerting themselves to gain as many followers as possible, so that when the time comes they maybe found ready to give any team a warm reception.

The following were elected to the selection committee, Messrs. Bagnall, Dugmore, and Alcock. Mr J.W. Fletcher was the Chairman.

The Sydney Morning Herald of the 3/5/1884 reports.
The Southern British Football Association, existing under the Association Rules of Great Britain held a general meeting on Thursday evening at Hodges Hotel, which was well attended.

Mr. J. W. Fletcher being voted to chair the meeting, the business which was of a very important nature, was gone through, and the coming season promises to be a very bright one in the annals of the Association.

The chief feature will be the visit of the Victorian team during July, when two or more matches will be played on the Agriculture Ground.

The committee endeavoured to procure the Association Cricket Ground for the coming contest, but owing to the dates being filled up the idea had to be abandoned.

During the evening the Secretary read an invitation from a team at Broughton Creek to play a match as early as possible.

The members on learning the desires of the country club decided that the opportunity of a run into the Shoalhaven district be taken advantage of, consequently a team will be selected next week, and the contest will take place on the 24th inst, at Broughton Creek.

Four New Clubs.

Four new clubs joined the Association,and the Secretary was authorised to issue a challenge to Victoria and Queensland for the coming season.

The Tribune News of the week 10/7/1885 reports Had a stranger visited the Agriculture Ground on Saturday I imagine he would have come to the conclusion that the Football patrons of this country are not a very charitably disposed body.

It was painful to gaze on such a beggarly array of empty benches on the occasion of what can be called the first match for a Charitable Purpose,that has been played in this colony.

The result of this apathy will be that after all legitimate expences have been defrayed,the Capell family relief fund will only be very slightly augmented.

There could be no excuse on the score of want of attractiveness as it was well known all through the week that when two such teams as the Caledonians and the Wanderers are pitted against each other the chance of seeing a very interesting and attractive display of British Association Football Game are exceedingly rosy.

Those who were present thoughly enjoyed and appreciated the play which was equal to anything that has been witnessed this season.

The result was a win for the Caledonians 2x0, the difference in the score is not soley due to the superiority of the winning team,for the chorous each side had of kicking goals were about equal.

The dribbling and passing of several of the contestants was of a very high character,and it is surprising that this style of Football does not commend itself more generally to the minds of the Football loving public.

In my opinion the best exponent of the game amongst the 22 players was Griffiths of the Wanderers team,albeit he was very closely followed by W.A.Muir of the Caledonians Praise is also due to C.Stephens,Greigg,D.Anderson,Fairley, and Campbell(Caledonians) and Kerr.Mayor,Dugmore,and Seabrook(Wanderers)

The Sydney Morning Herald reports 22/6/1888 that the Coreen College v Kings School 2nd XI was played on the 18th June at Parramatta under English Rules.

The boys of both schools gave a Capital exposition of the rules for some time and understood better the art of keeping their places.

Hence though Kings School had more a even and better trained team.

Coreen won 5x0 all of which was scored by Bray, who showed wonderful pace, and on three occasions took the ball unaided the whole length of the ground.

Coreen team was as follows.

Lee, Murray, J. Roxburgh, Lord, Scott, Bray, Griffiths, Fullerton, A. Roxburgh, Bettington. ?

7th June as reported by the Katoomba Times

The College(Katoomba) 4 v The School(Mount Victoria) 1

Play was started at 3pm in the afternoon of Saturday 31st
Katoomba Boys won the toss..and kicked off.

The Mount Victoria team scored at the outset a goal from a good run up the left wing.

Soon after that the Katoomba College Boys equalised matters, and at half time the scores stood at 1 goal each.

On resuming play, The school were made to stand and defend and during this half the schools goal fell.

When the team from the Mount arrived at Katoomba Railway Station, fears were entertained that Katoomba would not stand a show on account of the weight of their opponents.

The College, however had the assistance of messrs Willie Young and J. Miller, and it was perhaps to their experience and better knowledge of the game under British Association Rules that victory went to Katoomba.

The play of Hurley and Giles for Katoomba College and that of the outer right wing forward for the school, of Mount Victoria are worthy of special note.

Although the game was a hard one, and if the school Boys had practised well during the season the Katoomba Collegion will have too look sharp to themselves in the return match.

Though the day was rather misty, it did not interfere materially with the sport.

The Evolution of the Penalty

One of the most momentous decisions ever made by the Football Association Council was the introduction of the Penalty Kick Law in 1891. Its overall effect on football is incalculable but it has certainly given rise to numerous unusual incidents, affected many a result and added an extra spark of excitement to the game. Previously no-one had discovered a satisfactory solution to the problem of how to penalise players who prevented a goal by unlawful means. Although one experimental rule had been introduced however, in 1881, by which the referee (still the official to whom the umpires referred to in case of disagreement) was empowered to award a goal against a player who handled the ball to prevent it from crossing the line, but after several cases of disputes had been reported the rule was rescinded in 1882 and no further attempt to alter the laws was made again until 1891.

By this date, "stop at nothing" tactics had spread and foul tackles were the accepted practice among the players to prevent a score because they knew full well that the resultant free kick could be nullified by packing the goalmouth. So, when the Irish Football Association suggested the penalty kick, it was readily accepted by the local Association. At first, it had only a slight resemblance to the spot-kick of today and was still regarded as an extraordinary rule; even when referees were given complete control on the field from 1894 - it therefore being no longer necessary for players to appeal to them for decision - this did not apply to the penalty kick, at least for certain offences. In fact, spot kicks did not take place until 1902 when present day markings were introduced; up to this point in time the penalty and the goal areas were completely different. Before 1891, the only mark on the field of play had been in the centre but the penalty kick gave rise to a number of markings where none had previously existed; viz. a line 12 yards from, and parallel to, the goal line by a player standing alone; a line six yards from the goal, limiting the distance to which a goalkeeper could advance; a mark 18 yards from the goal, behind which all other players were required to stand; this was only in theory, for a few grounds possessed these markings during the first season when the law was in practice. Thus when the Wolves centre forward, Heath, shot the first penalty against Accrington (England) on September 14th, 1891, it was taken from an approximate position only. In fact, in 1886, field markings were made compulsory; the goalkeeper's limit of advance being shown by a semi-circle of six yards from each goal post and the penalty line extending the whole width of the field. At this date, no 18 yard mark was deemed necessary but as players often encroached on the kicker, it was necessary to make it compulsory in 1901, when the field looked like the diagram shown

Goal

Field Markings

1. 100 x 200 yards
2. Note goal area before introduction of penalty
3. Note changed markings after introduction of penalty
4. Note "arc" outside 18 yard box, to make players 10 yards from the ball; introduced in 1937.

200 yards; minimum length, 100 yards; maximum breadth, 100 yards; minimum breadth, 60 yards. The length and breadth shall be marked off with flags; and the goals shall be upright posts, 8 yards apart, with a tape or bar across them, 8 feet from the ground.

"2. The winners of the toss shall have the option of kick-off or choice of goals. The game shall be commenced by a place-kick from the centre of the ground; the other side shall not approach within ten yards of the ball until it is kicked off, nor shall any player on either side pass the centre of the ground in the direction of his opponents' goal until the ball is kicked off.

"3. Ends shall only be changed at half-time. After a goal is won, the losing side shall kick-off; but after the change of ends at half-time, the ball shall be kicked off by the opposite side from that which originally did so; and always as provided in law 2.

"4. A goal shall be won when the ball passes between the goal-posts under the tape or bar, not being thrown, knocked on, nor carried. The ball hitting the goal, or boundary posts, or goal bar, or tape, and rebounding into play, is considered in play.

"5. When the ball is in touch a player of the opposite side to that which has kicked it out, shall throw it from the point on the boundary-line where it left the ground in a direction at right angles with the boundary-line, at least six yards, and it shall not be in play until it has touched the ground, and the player throwing it shall not play it until it has been played by another player.

"6. When a player kicks the ball, any one of the same side who at such a moment of kicking is nearer to the opponents' goal-line, is out of play, and may not touch the ball himself, nor in any way whatever prevent any other player from doing so until the ball has been played, unless there are at least three of his opponents nearer their own goal-line; but no player is out of play when the ball is kicked from the goal-line.

"7. When the ball is kicked behind the goal line by one of the opposite side, it shall be kicked off by any one of the players behind whose goal-line it went, within six yards of the goal-post; but if kicked behind by any one of the side whose goal-line it is, a player of the opposite side shall kick it from within one yard of the nearest corner flag-post. In either case no other player shall be allowed within six yards of the ball until it is kicked off.

"8. No player shall carry or knock on the ball, and handling the ball under any pretence whatever shall be prohibited, except in the case of the goal-keeper, who shall be allowed to use his hands in defence of his goal, either by knocking on or throwing, but shall not carry the ball. The goal-keeper may be changed during the game, but not more than one player shall act as goal-keeper at the same time; and no second player shall step in and act during any period in which the regular goal-keeper may have vacated his position.

"9. Neither tripping nor hacking shall be allowed, and no player shall use his hands to hold or push his adversary, nor charge him from behind.

"10. No player shall wear any nails, excepting such as have their heads driven in flush with the leather, iron plates, or gutta-percha, on the soles or heels of his boots.

"11. In the event of any infringement of rules 6, 8, or 9, a free kick shall be forfeited to the opposite side from the spot where the infringement took place.

"12. In no case shall a goal be scored from any free kick, nor shall the ball be again played by the kicker until it has been played by another player. The kick-off and corner-flag kick shall be free kicks within the meaning of this rule.

"13. That in the event of any supposed infringement of rules 6, 8, 9, or 10, the ball shall be played until the decision of the umpire (Referee), on his being appealed to shall have been given.

FOOTBALL AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE THE CUP FINAL OF 1891

THE PENALTY KICK

The experience of a few seasons enabled the Football Association to see that the awarding of a penalty for an offence near the touch line was not justified and that the shape of the goal area in practice limited the goalkeeper's advance to five yards instead of six in the centre. As a result, present day markings were introduced. After this change, the goalkeeper was compelled to stand on his line but he could still jump about in an effort to distract the kicker; this was not forbidden until 1929. The final addition to the law governing the markings on the field was made in 1937 when the penalty "arc" was introduced. This gave the kicker an unimpeded run at the ball.

A few loopholes in these laws were from time to time discovered by ingenious players; in the first season a Scottish forward scored a penalty by dribbling into the goal, while in another match delaying tactics caused the 90 minutes to elapse before a penalty could be taken. The Football Association altered the law to provide for such contingencies but one goalkeeper tried a new strategy after the first World War: he was Thomas Farquharson of Cardiff and Ireland who gained a Cup Winners medal with the Welsh club in 1927. He stood behind the goal-line when called upon to face a Chelsea penalty and saved the kick. Soon afterwards, a new rule compelling goalkeepers to stand on the line, was introduced.

Please note that this article was written by Roger MacDonald for the Football Association News in 1963 and I thank him for this very interesting story on the "Penalty Kick")

BRITISH ASSOCIATION RULES.

(By "Last-Word.")

The annual general meeting of the British Football Association of New South Wales was held on Tuesday, 14th inst., at the Trades' Hall. The president, Mr. J. J. Dugmore, occupied the chair, and there was a large number of delegates, and a fair sprinkling of outsiders.

The annual report, carefully and exhaustively prepared by the hon. secretary, Mr. John Logan, was read by him.

It was decidedly optimistic in its weighing up of the doings of last season, and yet there is a large amount of truth in the opinion of the compiler that last season was the most successful and most fruitful yet experienced by the Association.

It is true that there was a great deal of the disturbing element, in the shape of protests and, like, in the carrying on of the official working of the game, but nevertheless the Association made has advanced a good few steps in public favor during the last twelve months.

As regard to the protests, bad or inefficient refereeing was largely to blame, and the sooner we have a Referees' Association the better.

The number of affiliated clubs last year was eight senior and fourteen junior, and the entries for the various competitions were as follow:—Gardiner Cup, 6; Senior League, 6; First Junior Competition, 10; Second Junior, 12.

The honors were fairly well distributed, Balmains winning the Cup, Pyrmont Rangers having the honor of being League champions for the third successive time. Pyrmont Volunteers came on top of the First Junior, and intend to play in the Senior grade this season, while the Second Junior medals went to Pyrmont Horers.

Although the Association had a pressing invitation to send a team to New Zealand they were unable to do so, but three inter-Association matches were played:—Sydney v. Newcastle, at Sydney, which resulted in a draw of 1 goal each; the return match at Newcastle being won by the Northern team by 3 goals to 0. The third match was played at Wollongong, against a combined South Coast team, resulting in a draw of 1 goal each.

The report went on to state that the Association had secured the University Oval for the coming season, and that the University Sports Union would present 12 gold medals to be played for by Senior clubs.

Mr. W. Kerr had also presented a cup, and in place of last year's Senior League, the Senior Competition would be known as the Kerr Cup and Oval Medal Competition.

Resolutions had been made to introduce the game in the public schools, but so far with poor results.

The thanks of the Association were accorded to the president and other officials for their services. Altogether the report was well received, and adopted unanimously.

The financial statement was next considered, and although it showed that the income of the Association had greatly increased, the expenditure had been proportionately heavy, with the result that the balance to the credit of the Association was reduced to £16 8s 3d. However, since the money has been spent in increasing the popularity of the game, it has been well spent.

The efforts of the hon. secretary were eulogistically mentioned, and an honorarium voted to him. He was re-elected unopposed to his old position.

Two new clubs were affiliated, Balmains Endeavor and Adamstown.

Now that cooler weather has set in veterans of the dribbling code are beginning to get their teams together for the coming season. Rather an interesting match was played on Birchgrove Reserve on Saturday between teams from the warships HMAS and Pyralis. In the first half Pyralis had the better of matters, scoring 3 goals to their opponents' one. However, in the second half the HMAS team played up in fine style, and just on time drew level. Score, 3 all. Mr. J. Logan officiated as referee, and the match was thoroughly enjoyed by both players and spectators.

The new club, which has the name of Corinthians, sent their second team over to North Sydney to try conclusions with the local Rangers. Both teams played one man short. The Corinthians were assisted by Miller and Holmes, of their Senior team. Notwithstanding this, the visitors were worsted by 3 goals to 2. The game was all enjoyable one, and Mr. M'Millan acted as referee.

A match was played at Pyrmont between Native House and Volunteers II, resulting in a draw.

On March 11, for the first time on record, London defeated a combined team of Oxford and Cambridge Universities in the Association game, the match taking place at the Essex County Ground, Leyton. The margin was one of 3 goals to 2, all the scoring being done in the second half.

England beat Ireland under Association Rules by 3 goals to none on March 7. The game was played at Oultonville Ground, Belfast, before over 12,000 spectators. The ground was sodden and very heavy.

The Sydney Referee Reports 25/3/1896

The President of the British Football Association send the following letter addressed to players and adherents of the Association Rules, which it is devoutly hoped will have the effect of pouring oil on the troubled waters of last year;

I beg a small space in your valuable paper as President of the British Football Association to call attention of all persons interested in these rules to the approaching season.

I would like especially to have a few words with the players

The season is fast approaching and we have a lot of work to do and the new rules to consider.

Players should all turn up on Friday 27th March and give these rules the earnest consideration they deserve. as upon them a great deal of the seasons success depends.

It is to be sincerely hoped that all will rally round the standard, and bury the hatchet that did so much damage to the game and disorganised some of the teams last year.

We have a promise of 12 Gold Medals from the university ground committee and a Cup from Mr Kerr to play for. Our game is now assuming an importance in Sydney that calls for judicious and careful management and the elimination of everything tending to partisanship in its government by the Association, while encouraging the keenest rivalry between clubs..

I would especially counsel delegates in the association to sink partisan feelings and sympathies in one grand endeavour to promote all that is best and brightest in our game, so that the public of the colony may be led to patronise it as it is patronised in the old country.

Wednesday 1st April 1896 as reported by Left Wing. of the Referee.

A special general meeting of the Association was held on Friday 28th March at the Trades Hall for the purpose of considering the alterations and additions to the rules. the result of the labors of the sub committee appointed last year.

Mr J.J. Dugmore occupied the Chair.

There was a fairly good attendance of delegates.

Those present recognised that the committee had done its work thoroughly, for, although the most pronounced reforms created a lively discussion, they were, with very few amendments were passed.

Owing to the want of time, only the general constitution and rules were gone into, the consideration of the rules of the various competition being adjourned till Tuesday night.

Without doubt the Principal "REFORM" is the composition of the committee. Previously each club had the right of sending two delegates to the committee, thus last year with 18 clubs, the committee consisted of 36 members besides officials.

It was very evident from the experience gained last season especially that this number was altogether unneidly and unworkable.

The new rule, therefore, provides for a committee of ten (elected) from the delegates at the A.G.M.

Five to be bonafide delegates senior and five from the junior clubs together with a Patron, President, seven Vice Presidents, Secretary and a Treasurer.

The seven Vice Presidents to be members of some affiliated clubs.

Then, in the matter of protest, and other committees are given the power to appoint sub committee to deal therewith.

The other alterations are of very minor considerations. The amended committee rule is certainly a step in the right direction, and the only exception that can be taken is that it has not gone far enough.

Seven committee men and three Vice Presidents being in my opinion enough.

However, we must be satisfied with the first step, and it is to be hoped that the machinery of government will work more easily and gracefully during the coming season than was unhappily the case last year.

It was announced at the meeting that the Association had secured the University Oval for the season, which was an extremely satisfactory piece of news, as the expected gate money will go a long way towards pushing the game forward.

Would you please note that the Rawson Cup was donated by the Goneror.

Would you please note.

At the end of the 1906 season the Adamstown Rosebud
Club had some very harsh words to say about the Southern British Football Association, which the Sydney Press supported.

The end result being that Adamstown were asked to apologise, or face a 12 months ban from the Gardiner Cup.

Adamstown Refused Entry.

As a result Adamstown were barred from nominating for the Gardiner Cup for this season.

Not to be denied Adamstown nominated as Broadmeadow for this season, with the result that BROADMEADOW WON THE GARDINER CUP.

"So it does prove that there is more than one way to

NEW SOUTH WALES ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL TEAM, WHICH DEFEATED QUEENSLAND

STANDING: M. VANDENDRICHE, F. WEST, W. CARROLL, A. LATTI, F. STOREY, E. HUGHES, J. MEEHAN, G. HARGOT, and W. LINCOLN.
 SECOND ROW: J. GOGAN, F. MILNER, MR. JOHN NOBBS, M.L.A. (PRESIDENT OF THE ASSOCIATION), R. O. WHITE, and S. BLAKE.

from the same goal at all. Fountain made good centre, and never was at a loss when opportunities occurred. Bowmer gave the impression that he was capable of doughty deeds, but the chances were denied him. The balance of the combination were in-and-out, with A.H. and Martin the best of a very assorted bunch. The "Test" results leave New South Wales with the rubber, as the following table shows. There have been three interchanges of courtesies, 1890, 1895, and 1912. In 1890 only one was played—at Sir Joseph Banks', where the "drones of goal-keepers," Jack Lee sustained a broken leg. The list now is—

1890.—At Sydney, Queensland won 1 to 0.
 1895.—At Brisbane, N.S.W. won 3 to 2.
 1900.—At Brisbane, Queensland won 3 to 2.
 1912.—At Sydney, N.S.W. won 2 to 0.
 1912.—At Sydney, N.S.W. won 0 to 0.

As the New South Wales combination is to north in August, it remains to be seen whether the Northerners will even up the table.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—Goal: Latti and Hughes, backs: Meehan, Moore (capt.), and Hargot, forwards: Robertson, A. Jones, L. Oll, and Nicholl.

QUEENSLAND.—J. McKeuzie goal; G. Lee and M. Bowmer, backs: Ch. Meehan, J. Hargot, and F. Bowmer, forwards: A. Hargot, L. Martin, L. Oll, and A. Jones.

Score: W. Lincoln, 10000, F. Meehan, 10000, J. Donald.

The Inter-State game at Epping last Saturday in its initial stages promised well, but for the major part of the balance of the time Queensland always piped the tune. Three goals were scored in each half, and of the six it is hard to say whether Nicholl's or Grogan's was the best. The former was the finishing touch to an splendid sprint along the wing, started by W. Lincoln. Carroll, the latter the result of a perfect foot pass from Moore to the scorer. Arth. Jones, whose play is as sound as ever, can put an greatest goal-getter against the invader, netting six; Masters follows with three, Grogan next with two. Jones played in three Gardner is undoubtedly the best player all out. On play, at a croquet, first half, they looked sure winners, "fodder" while, K. M. Dawson, and Goodchild all showed out prominently. In fact they have a player of class—a remark likewise applicable to Spargo.

Northern Suburbs made a great showing against the Waterloos, showing, justifying the rumor that they were considerably strengthened. They are sure to do better with practice, and Secretary Dixon's enthusiasm has fired them with the ambition of winning their particular grade. Temple, Vandendribe and McOwen were their champions, Harrigan showing out conspicuously for the victors.

Y.M.C.A. shifted the Police, whose team beats plenty of good practice, as several are new to the game. Y.M. on their performance, appear a "dark horse" of considerable promise.

On the day's game, Balmala landed five wins and Okebo two. That record designates Secretary's stronghold.

Games in the Second League were of an interesting description. Those in the first division were evenly contested, although condition was absent from some sides (they going to pieces after the interval). In the second brigade, Doherty opened with a creditable win, and Burns' Club showed great promise.

Prizes for the Gardner Cup have closed, and are—Balmala (three teams), Royal Navy (H.M.S. Drake and Okebo Island) The Okebo, Sydney (two teams), Newton, Canterbury, Granville, Auburn, West Sydney, Northern Suburbs, Y.M.C.A. Huron Club South Sydney, Miralton, West Wollongong, Casenock, Portland, and Carrimal.

This is a record entry, and exemplifies the growth of the round-ball code. Balmala (two teams) and H.M.S. Drake are excused the preliminary round which will be drawn at Council meeting. The country entries are disappointing. Much was expected from South Coast, and it looks as if all the organizing and developing work instituted by the headquarters body North and South has not been too well fostered. More is the pity.

Granville, as usual, per energetic Bentley Hyson, recommenced operations on Saturday. They have a splendid entry—7 seniors & juniors, & juveniles in new competition; and 19 schools would that other districts put a similarly sturdy shoulder to the wheel.

NEWCASTLE BRANCH.

It is regretted that two entries—West Wollongong and Casenock—have been excluded from this centre for the year. Championship very little has come along concerning local affairs. The district centre was a have been tried. The inter-club games will be played on June 2nd inst., and it is the responsibility of the people to be up and

There were the men, who the British Association of Fitter's players, to come in, looking at the game. They used their skill, and many a bit of luck. But they had much to learn from the British Association.

National Football Body

It was during this year that the first attempt was made to form a National Football Organisation.

But it was decided that after the War would be a much more suitable time to form such a body.

Throughout the early 1920's Mr Ern Lukeman from NSW State with the encouragement from his President of the Southern NSW Football Association called a meeting at the Caledonian Club in Melbourne on the 16/8/1921 with the view of forming a National Football Association.

The soldiers of the East Surrey Regiment playing soccer as they advance across no-man's-land through a hail of enemy fire. A patriotic poet commemorated the event: 'Where blood is poured like water they drive the trickling ball... True to the land that bore them, The Surreys play the game!'
